

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: Katie Watkins

katie@jupiterhotel.com

541-386-1900

Hi-Res Images

Hood River Hotel Launches Come-and-Go Winter Season Pass

Mt Hood Meadows Season Passholders Can Stay, Ski, and Stay Again!

(December 3, 2020) Hood River, Ore. — Hood River's Historic downtown hotel launches the first of its kind hotel season pass program. Hood River Hotel's season-stay-pass allows skiers, riders and their crews a come-and-go-as-you-please place to crash for the winter season. With 41 rooms, suites, and a brand new 10-bed hostel-style BunkHouse with a private dry sauna, we've made sure it's never been easier to score the morning's first tracks.

Hood River Hotel Season Pass Holders will be able to plan their trip in advance or show up the night before they hit the slopes and snag a private sleeping room. In the morning, enjoy a few more zzzzs before jumping on the shuttle that will drop them off right at the Meadows entrance. At the end of the day, reverse that trip, enjoy a cold craft beer by the fireplace, then relax and do it all again the next day.

Winter-loving snow enthusiasts have two hotel pass options: a Weekday pass for wanderers staying Sundays-Thursdays, or a Weekend warrior pass for folks looking for the truly unlimited version. Plus, when friends and family want to join in on the fun, pass holders can add extra rooms for 15% off, as often as they want!

The best part? Transportation to the mountain is free! Hop on CAT's Mt Hood Meadows Gorge-to-Mountain Express shuttle with pick up a few blocks away at the Hood River Event Site, and you'll be driven straight to the Meadows parking lot. Cut down on the hassle of waking up at dawn to wrangle kids and friends and get on the road from Portland to Mt Hood, and slice an hour off the trip. Less travel time means more time on the slopes, and getting out to the mountain two days in a row no longer seems like a pipe dream.

Jeremy Duncan, General Manager of Hood River Hotel, says of the new pass program, "We've always been a solid base camp for outdoor adventures in and around Hood River, any time of year. This winter, we wanted to level up our opportunities for our guests to get out and about on the mountain, making it even easier to get the most out of the winter season."

Hood River is one of Oregon's go-to destinations for foodies, trekkers, historians, and adrenaline junkies. Besides being the windsurfing capital of the world, Hood River is located at the panoramic crossroads of the Columbia River Gorge and the Cascade Range. Whether a traveler is looking for scenic hiking, mountain biking, snowboarding, craft breweries, wine, fine dining, Hood River has it all; and at 35 miles from Mt Hood Meadows, there's no beating the proximity to the best of the Pacific Northwest.

Hood River Hotel is currently sold out of weekend passes, and a limited amount of weekday Winter Season Passes are still available, so if guests are interested, give the front desk a ring to start reserving stays at 541-386-1900. Find more information about the Hood River Hotel Season Pass, including restrictions, by visiting hoodriverhotel.com/deals

###

About Hood River Hotel

Built in 1911, and on the National Register of Historic Places, the Hood River Hotel is the place to stay in the Columbia River Gorge. Hood River Hotel's 41 rooms and suites, plus 10 hostel-style beds in our brand new BunkHouse, is located in the center of downtown, nestled amidst local artisan shops, eateries, wineries, brew pubs and a myriad of outdoor adventure destinations. Start your day with a cup of complimentary locally roasted coffee in our lobby, or visit Broder Ost, a Scandinavian inspired bistro for brunch. End your day sitting fireside with a local craft brew or a robust red from Columbia Valley. Learn more about the hotel at hoodriverhotel.com.